

Increase In Yield Of $75 Per Acre Is Remarkable Result

Use of Bordeaux Mixture For Blight Accounts For Nearly $60 Increase In Value of Potatoes Per Acre

The potato field day held on the potato demonstration plots a mile south of King City on Tuesday proved to be one of the most interesting gatherings of its kind ever held, according to Norman Parks of the Ontario Agricultural College, who has been supervising this work for the past three years in York county in co-operation with Agricultural Representative W. M. Cockburn.

In spite of threshings and silo filling, about 50 interested farmers from almost all parts of the county gathered to look over the results as shown by the digging tests.

From 1.45 till 2 o'clock slips of paper were distributed on which those present estimated the average increase in cash returns per acre from proper fertilization and spraying with Bordeaux mixture. The winner of the bag of potatoes for the closest estimate was Reeve W. H. Pugsley of Sutton. On a blackboard the results on each of the four farms were worked out on a basis of yield on one row in each plot.

Although wet weather prevented planting till June 15 the crops made good growth till blight and leaf hoppers attacked the check plot, which was sprayed with poison only and received no Bordeaux mixture (bluestone and lime). About the middle of August these check plots began to die off. The Bordeaux sprayed plots were still green till last week and one till

Monday of this week when frozen down.

In computing the results given below, the crop was figured at $1 per bag at the suggestion of those present and the yield is of total potatoes, small ones included. Cost of seed (all certified seed), two-thirds of the cost of fertilizer, cost of spraying and use of sprayer have been deducted.

While there was an average profit over cost from use of fertilizer of only $16.50, the fertilized plots in all cases had a much higher percentage of uniform marketable potatoes.

On the four farms the increased returns per acre from spraying with Bordeaux mixture alone was $58.25 over the cost of material or almost $12 for each of the five sprays, up to Sept. 3. Compared with the check plot, the fertilizer and Bordeaux spray (from the same seed and manured the same) gave a net increase per acre of $75.65 on the four farms. This would represent $756.50 more money from ten acres, which is the average acreage grown in that district.

Better methods do pay, Mr. Cockburn commented. Mr. Cockburn would be glad to forward a detailed report to any grower interested.

The plots this year were on the farms of J. E. Hadwin, Maple, Mrs. Geo. Crooks, Maple, W. H. Hoiles, Maple, John Riddell, King, R. R. 1.

RED SHIELD GOES ON TOWARDS OBJECTIVE

The Red Shield "Home Front" drive being led by the Salvation Army has reached over one-third of its objective.

"Canvassers are meeting with good success both in town and in the surrounding districts," said Capt. F. W. Brightwell, chairman of the drive in Newmarket.

"Those who have been out when the canvassers have called are asked to send in their donations addressed to the Salvation Army Red Shield Home Front Appeal, P.O. Box 383, Newmarket," said Capt. Brightwell.

Jackson's Point, Sutton and Pefferlaw are also reporting good success. Bradford also is well on the way to reaching their quota of $500.

Persons requiring information concerning this appeal are asked to phone the campaign office at Newmarket 799 or 697W.

A complete list of names of donors will be published at the end of the appeal.

Capt. Brightwell was grateful to the teachers and pupils of Keswick public school for a donation of splints to the Red Shield work. These were made by the young people themselves.

BEEF MISHANDLED BY OTTAWA, IS CHARGED

Miss Agnes Macphail, former member of parliament, lashed out at the King government's handling of the beef situation in an address in the interests of the C.C.F. at Mount Albert on Thursday evening.

"There is no need for a beef shortage in this country," she said. "The reason there is one is because the government did nothing to encourage agriculture at the beginning of the war. They must have known from the history of the last war what would happen."

"Donald Gordon, the price spreads chairman, thinks cattle can be produced in days not months and urges the shortage be alleviated now. Gardiner, the agriculture minister, thinks the farmers should keep their cattle and does nothing about prices. Let Gordon and Gardiner stop fighting and get down to work."

"The fact we can't ship beef to the States means we may lose the American market it took years to create, and don't think Mexico and South America won't be glad to get it. If our policies were right we could supply the domestic, American and English demands. The King government has made a mess of agricultural policies and most everything else too."

"Rationing has shown us that money won't buy everything. The day of the common man is at hand. Both of the old parties virtually have the same policies. Only the C.C.F. has anything different to offer. I don't know how any sound thinking person will be able to support either the Liberals or Conservatives after the mess they have made of things."

Kenneth Ross, former C.C.F. candidate for North York, was chairman of the meeting.

LAST TRIBUTES PAID TO FREDERICK PORTER

Facing life with a courage and faith that did not fail with failing health, David Frederick Porter died last Thursday in his 64th year. Rev. G. H. Johnson of St. Paul's Anglican church, Newmarket, conducted a service at Roadhouse and Rose funeral chapel and Rev. Walter Creighton of Bradford conducted a service at Mount Pleasant cemetery, Bradford, on Saturday afternoon.

Pallbearers were J. E. Nesbitt, C. E. Munshaw, David Moulds, Fred Chantler, F. N. Smith and Wm. Sawdon.

Among visitors who attended the service were George H. Walker, Detroit, Mrs. K. B. White, Listowel, Mrs. R. J. Williamson, her son, Robert Williamson, and two daughters, Misses Margaret and Dorothy Williamson, Toronto, Miss Elizabeth Campbell, Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Porter, Lindsay, and Mrs. Eva Lynch, Lindsay.

Born near Blackstock in Durham county, the son of Mary Ann Hughes (a cousin of the late Sir Sam Hughes) and J. M. Porter, David Frederick Porter grew up on a farm. He learned his trade as a tailor in Blackstock.

After working in the United States for a time, he went to Bradford about 35 years ago and started in business as a merchant tailor. He married Florrie Walker of Bradford 30 years ago and moved to Newmarket 22 years ago. In Newmarket he opened a tailoring business where Insley's men's wear is now located, and was active in business at various locations until early this year.

He was in failing health for the last year and a half. He underwent an operation a year ago and another in June of this year. He went to the hospital a week ago Sunday and died on Thursday. Except for the time in hospital he didn't go to bed with his ailment but remained active.

Mr. Porter served in the army during the first great war and attained the rank of sergeant. He was discharged because of his health and did not go overseas.

A great student of the Bible, Mr. Porter had a keen interest in religion and the church. He was a warden of Trinity Anglican church, Bradford, for nine years, and was instrumental in securing a parish hall at Bradford.

In Newmarket he attended St. Paul's Anglican church, and was one of the first and most enthusiastic members of the Newmarket branch of the British Israel World Federation. He was also an ardent member of the lawn bowling club.

His wife survives him. One of a family of six brothers and sisters, he leaves only one surviving, Joseph Porter, Lindsay. Another brother, Hugh Porter, of Rochester, N.Y., died in August. One other brother and two sisters had gone previously.

The Ontario municipal board has given unanimous consent to the purchase of the Imperial Bank building, in Newmarket, by the town for use as a clerk's office and public utilities office.

The town notified the bank yesterday of its acceptance of the offer to sell for $9,000.

R. S. Coulter, K.C., chairman, and W. W. Near, vice-chairman, of the Ontario municipal board, sat in the council chamber on Tuesday afternoon to hear any citizens who wished to speak in approval or disapproval of the proposed purchase of the Imperial Bank building for $9,000.

The money is to be raised by debenture, and will be repaid over a nine-year period.

The third member of the board, Alfred Gray, deputy-minister of municipal affairs, was not present. Mr. Coulter said that he would discuss the hearing with Mr. Gray and acquaint him with what had taken place.

N. L. Mathews, K.C., Newmarket town clerk and solicitor, represented the town council. Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales, Reeve J. A. Lundy, Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale, Councillor Arleigh Armstrong and the town assessor, B. W. Hunter, were present.

After asking for any objections to the proposed purchase, Mr. Coulter said that the authority of the board to dispense with a vote of the ratepayers is "exercised very sparingly and only in cases of emergency. This is a case of emergency. You have a right to buy now but if you wait until after a vote of the ratepayers is taken somebody else might buy the building."

Mr. Mathews said he appreciated very much the action of the board in coming to Newmarket.

"The ratepayers evidently approve because they haven't come to object," said Mr. Coulter.

The building is assessed for $6,000 and the land for $900. Taxes lost by the town will be more than made up by rentals from parts of the building not used by the town for its own offices.

Too Many Cooks Put Up Town Power Bill, Hinder War Industry

Hydro Expert Suggests Town Stagger Meal Hours To Extend Cooking Time, Reduce Consumption Peak

Northern York county people can't sweep back the Atlantic but they can slow the flow of water down the Gattineau or Ottawa.

When Newmarket citizens shut off their lights on an evening, less water automatically goes through the turbines in Ottawa valley power plants and the water is saved to produce power for war industry.

W. R. Harmer, representing the Ontario Hydro-Electric, gave this interesting information in the course of a power-saving conference with the town council on Monday evening.

Newmarket and Toronto power no longer comes from Niagara but from eastern Ontario and Quebec. Mr. Harmer stated. Turning off street lights and display lights is not just a gesture. It is true that these lights are consumed off the Hydro's "peak" consumption, but the power saved is really saved, Mr. Harmer said.

If Newmarket were supplied by the Niagara system, turning off lights in the evenings would be largely of psychological value at least at this time of the year, it was gathered. The Niagara system cannot store up water. It either turns the water into power or allows it to go over the falls. Actually, it was gathered from Mr. Harmer's discussion with the council, the Niagara power-houses use most of the time just about all the water they are allowed to use by international agreement.

Questioned chiefly by Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales, Councillor A. D. Evans, chairman of the water and light committee, and the two committee members, Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale and Councillor J. L. Spillite, Mr. Harmer agreed that turning off Newmarket's street and display lights in the evenings meant a loss of revenue to the Newmarket light department without any reduction in costs. Newmarket's economy made power available for other municipalities to sell profitably to war industries. Dr. Dales thought that the dominion power controller should find a way of compensating Newmarket.

Mr. Harmer said that Newmarket's answer to loss of revenue was to reduce its "peak" consumption and so reduce the cost of its power. This peak comes in the summer and fall between 11.30 and noon (in the winter between 5.30 p.m. and 6 p.m.). The only way to reduce this peak, caused by electric ranges, he said, was to stagger the hour for the noon meal, and to urge the public through the press to do ironing and cooking as much as possible at other times. The public would get better electricity for its money at off-peak hours.

The way to stagger midday cooking, he suggested, was to get factories and schools to stagger their meal-hours.

Newmarket pays the Ontario Hydro-Electric $25 a horsepower for the first 1,700 horsepower and $25.50 for additional horsepower for the greatest load used in any 20-minute period during each month. This 20-minute peak usually comes between 11.30 and noon, but the highest peak might be on the first day in the month or any other day in the month. The town pays for its power on the basis of its highest 20-minute peak during the month, and all the saving done on any other day or at any other time doesn't help the town at all, it was emphasized during the discussion. On the contrary all off-peak economies mean a loss of revenue to the town, even though patriotism means that they should be made.

Dr. Dales thanked Mr. Harmer for coming to Newmarket and making his suggestions.

Angus Morrison, water and light superintendent, attended the conference.

Saving power between 11.30 a.m. and noon, Mr. Harmer said, meant a loss of revenue to the Ontario Hydro-Electric but it helped to reduce both the town and the Hydro peak, and was therefore definitely helpful.

THEY WANT OUR MONEY

A war loan is coming. Hints of this impending event have now taken definite form in the opening of a North York office in Newmarket with Mr. H. L. Trapp in charge. Mr. Aubrey Davis is to be chairman. Mr. Trapp and Mr. Davis have had nothing but success in the past and they probably have no other thought this time. Nevertheless, they have a bigger job to do. We, the people of northern York county, have a bigger job to do.

Perhaps it will be easier, after Hong Kong and Dieppe, to raise the bigger sums of money required, for the task is not to find the money but to find the readiness to take the money out of its present place of deposit and to lend it to the government. Once people become conscious of the necessity of doing all they can individually, and become imbued with the desire to lend all they can, there will be little difficulty in gathering up the money. It will be only a matter of organization.

NOT FAIR BUT IT'S WAR

The suggestion was made at a town council conference last week with a representative of the Ontario Hydro-Electric that the Ontario Hydro or other municipalities were going to benefit financially by selling power which Newmarket would save, which Newmarket would save off its peak and therefore still have to pay for. There can be little justice in carrying out "total war" measures, and those who suffer must accept their hardships like soldiers. Kirkland Lake and Timmins, for instance, already hit economically by enlistments and a population migration to war industry centres, are to have men transferred from their gold mines to Sudbury's nickel mines. Sudbury will benefit, but that is merely incidental to the promotion of the war.

Newmarket people have not much to complain about. The town is probably selling enough electricity and water to the Newmarket military camp to make up for any losses resulting from store and home electricity economies. It is up to citizens to economize in the use of electricity even if they have to pay for it in the long run anyway. Turning off street lights means a loss of revenue to the light department, but it is only a book-keeping entry and is not a loss to the town. The town will save on upkeep.

NOT TO REASON WHY?

If we always knew the reasons for government rulings, there would not be so many editorials. When the reasons were bad or doubtful, we could still write the editorial. When the reason was good, however, editorial writers would be "circumscribed." In the absence of reasons, the war-time prices and trade board's handling of pork furnishes good material for editorial questionings. Citizens are asked not to buy pork, and yet pork is supplied to butchers to sell to those who pay no attention to such requests. A Toronto store's meat department last week, it is said, had pork in the showcase but displayed a government poster saying: "Please do not buy pork." What does it mean?

DOCTORS DIFFER

Who shall decide, when doctors disagree, And soundest casuists doubt, like you and me? Two Toronto writers to whom we look for light and leading make rather contradictory statements on the subject of war. W. R. Plewman, in the Toronto Daily Star, arguing for offensive action, says: "War is a competition in killing and destroying forced upon decent peoples in this struggle by the Nazis. The Allies must get to grips with the enemy and kill off Germans more rapidly."

B. K. Sandwell, in the Toronto Saturday Night, writing probably simultaneously with Mr. Plewman (though we can't say that their letters crossed in the "Mail"), says: "Wars are not won by killing, but by convincing the enemy that killing may go on forever unless he quits." Believing that the pen is mightier than the sword (unless the sword gets there first), and in the power of the written and spoken word, we like Mr. Sandwell's suggestion that there is a place for propaganda. In other words, you not only hit the enemy, but you tell him how much it hurts him, how much harder you are going to hit him next year, and how badly he is doing.

As Mr. Sandwell points out, the Germans seemed to be strong and hitting hard in the summer of 1918. "The fury of battle was at its peak," he says. "No one," he over-states, "expected that it could die down for months, perhaps not for years. But suddenly the German soldiers became convinced that this misery couldn't go on; that any change must be for the better. So they went home in droves, the Kaiser stepped over into Holland and the bells rang for Armistice Day."

That is just what the Germans have always contended, that they weren't beaten in 1918. They weren't beaten by arms alone but by arms and propaganda. As we understand the story, Lord Northcliffe was getting into Germany and the German trenches defeatist propaganda which played a large part in the German soldiers' decision to quit. Lord Northcliffe, one story goes, would print German newspapers giving the German side of the story with a little paragraph slipped in at the bottom of the last page calculated to destroy the soldiers' morale, and smuggle these bogus German newspapers into the German trenches.

So successful was propaganda in the last war that we started off in this war to drop pamphlets, instead of bombs, over Germany. The idea was sound, but it would seem that the high command has decided that advertising doesn't pay and has cut down the appropriation. Amateur advertisers get discouraged easily.

Mr. Sandwell has another explanation for what he calls, in another article, "the sterility of our political warfare." (He ended the "killing" article by urging Canada to watch the morale of her soldiers by "making sure that soldiers' dependents are well-fed and comfortably housed.")

Mr. Sandwell says that the reason that we haven't used more boring-within propaganda is that "our governments have not yet made up their minds" on whether they wish to foster a social revolution in Germany. However, says he, "many people hold that a left wing revolution, not only in Germany but on the whole European continent, is inescapable," and, if they are right, it would be "a matter of common sense to hasten its coming in order to shorten the war."

Mr. Plewman, then, if we accept the ingenious peregrinations of Mr. Sandwell, is no communist. Mr. Plewman wants to win the war in good clean military fashion with bombs and armies that will not leave a trail of communism behind them.

THE "COMPLEAT" EDUCATION

Drayton continuation school (in Wellington county) is going to teach upper school subjects this year, and urges boys and girls of the village to pursue their studies at the home school rather than go to other schools. "Don't fall for the glamor of the 'big town' school. Support the home town to which you owe everything you are." It advertises "complete academic studies leading to senior matriculation," "the best individual instruction offered by any school," and "the services of a highly proficient staff supported by an interested school board." Finally: "Parents, we guarantee you complete satisfaction."

WHAT OTHERS THINK

FIFTH WHEEL

(Richmond Hill Liberal)

F. J. McRae, reeve of the township of York, and a member of county council for several years, last week declared that "county council is a fifth wheel in the administration wagon which should be abolished as a part of our system of government."

There is no place in any country, any time, for a fifth wheel on the administration wagon. The taxpayer has plenty of trouble keeping four wheels greased and in running order. In war-time it is sabotage of our war effort to continue with a fifth wheel.

There is no useful function of county council which cannot better be carried out by the provincial government and the local municipal council. County councils served a useful purpose in the early days of horse-and-buggy communication, but today they serve no useful purpose and should be abolished.

Last year we paid $23,043 to members of "York county council. Some 50 men gathered in a sort of glorified debating society and discussed every subject imaginable including many things over which they had absolutely no control. What a waste of money and man-power. The money and man-power might better be used in productive war effort.

As Reeve F. J. McRae said, "Let us not be slaves to forms of government which have been set up in the past at great expense to the overburdened taxpayer."

If we are to keep going, and do our utmost in the war effort we must get rid of all fifth wheels on the administration wagon. The first to go should be the county council.

KING MAKERS

(Richmond Hill Liberal)

Fifty members of York county council convened last week and each member received $7 per day and mileage. The business for this special session was the appointment of two members to the Toronto and York Roads Commission to replace the two who resigned following an investigation conducted by the city of Toronto. While all members of county council were called into session the great majority of them might just as well have stayed home as far as having any say in the appointments. Long before the session was called to order the "king makers" had the "fix" in the bag and with one exception all members voted for the "king makers" nominations, Warden Earl Toole and Ex-Warden Gordon Harris. To add to their lustre as "king makers" they added a provision for an annual salary of $1,500 for each commissioner plus mileage. This also received ratification of the members. While no doubt the two new commissioners are excellent men, we would have thought that non-membership in county council might have been considered a desirable qualification.

SALARY GRAB

(Richmond Hill Liberal)

York county taxpayers haven't yet gotten over the shock of the county council action in fixing a salary of $1,500 per year plus mileage for Toronto and York roads commissioners. The former York county representatives on the commission were paid at the rate of $7 per day and mileage. We haven't seen anyone who knows how many days the former commissioners put in for but it is hardly conceivable that they met over 200 days in the year. The other three representatives on the roads commission served without pay, and now York county council wants provision that they too be paid at the rate of $1,500 per annum plus mileage. A salary grab of such proportions is the best argument we know of in favor of abolishing the roads commission.

Of People And Things

PRECEPT AND PRACTICE

By Isabel Inglis Colville

I think that a great many things we hear and are supposed to remember and put into practice when need arises are forgotten because the practical use of the information follows too slowly on the heels of it.

We have all laughed at the pictures of the victims of enthusiastic first-aiders; indeed I read a mystery story lately where the murderer was caught by some women who were totally unaware of his identity, but who, when he was thrown from his car, saw in his misfortune a splendid opportunity to bandage him in every available way, even putting one leg in splints and so rendering him incapable of movement and an easy prey for the police.

All efforts to do end so dramatically or uncomfortably, but I thought of these things as I listened to Miss Hamilton, who was sent by the Institute branch of the department of agriculture, to give us help in various ways. She not only talked—she illustrated.

A carload of us travelled to Mount Pisgah church at White Rose on the afternoon of the 11th. We were sorry to miss the morning session, for in it, as well as many other things, Miss Hamilton told of her experiences in Germany a few years ago. As I was not there I cannot write of it, but can at least express regret for a lost opportunity.

However, we were thankful that Huldah could take us in the afternoon, for few men can spare time to drive about the country, however worthy the cause. The afternoon session opened almost immediately upon our arrival.

Mrs. Gillis, now of Toronto, formerly of Gormley, sang very sweetly "The White Cliffs of Dover," and then Miss Hamilton was introduced and one felt at once that one was glad to be there. With my usual admirable (?) lack of forethought I had forgotten my notebook, and thankfully accepted envelopes and scraps of paper.

As my writing is at all times as undecipherable as writing can be—consult Era and Express for confirmation—and all my friends who have suffered from trying, often vainly, to read my letters, will know what I am going through trying to make sense out of what bears a strong resemblance to hieroglyphics.

Her talk was on prevention and treatment of accidents in the home and remedies for various ailments which are—the remedies, not the ailments—accessible to all housewives at all times.

She warned against leaving things on stairs for people to fall over, against letting a baby out of its play pen when oven doors are open or hot water is standing round, against having the spout of the tea-kettle turned outward, against having the handles of saucepans where one can brush against them and upset the contents, and against putting your hand on a fruit jar and prying it open.

She certainly made us feel an ounce of prevention was worth a pound of cure.

She told us that vitamin K, discovered by a Danish chemist, was splendid in control of bleeding as it helped in the coagulation of blood and was used in obstetrical cases and in some surgical cases. For nose bleed she advised holding the arms above the head which should be kept back. A pad under the lip and under the nose also helps in some cases.

She stressed the necessity of keeping infection out of injuries and said that iodine was the ideal disinfectant. For a gargoyle use baking soda—a little salt may be added. Of wounds, she said lacerations such as tearing by wire were the most dangerous, for here the injury went deeper, doubling the possibility of infection.

If the wound were deep or gaping, a doctor should be consulted at once, as otherwise, even if one could clean thoroughly, a nasty scar might result.

Where skin is scraped, as after a fall, use lots of warm water and soap, washing away from the wound. If particles of dirt or any foreign matter still adhere, take small forceps, disinfect and remove the particles, then wash with warm boracic and water.

For knee and elbow, use a triangular bandage, always with the peak pointing upwards.

If a wet dressing is used on a wound or burn, in the absence of gauze, use oiled paper over it to keep dressing moist. Use dry dressing when wound is thoroughly cleaned.

If the eye should be spattered with hot fat, drop in castor oil; if little particles of dirt get into the eye, use a boracic wash and when wiping, wipe towards nose. Where there is a punctured wound, such as from a nail or a bite, see a doctor, for there is always danger of tetanus. For contused injuries, such as bruises use witch hazel.

For a minor burn such as touching a hot thing, use butter, grease or lard, never use ungumtine, oil or vaseline on burns; if large burn use baking soda, boracic or cold tea. Use brown soap for poison ivy before putting on any other dressing such as boracic. Never suck a finger which has been pricked; the mouth may contain infection.

For congestion there is nothing better than good old mustard plasters. One tablespoon mustard, three of flour, for children six of flour and if they are to remain on for any length of time, eight of flour.

Steam squares of old cotton, then roast and put away, ready for emergency dressings. A hot water bottle should never be covered or a towel placed between it and the patient, the same with an ice-bag.

Heat is good for most pains, but not near the groin for fear of appendicitis, not behind the ear for fear of mastoid, for these use ice bag or ice water.

A little warm olive oil may give relief to earache, but better see a doctor.

In the middle of her talk Miss Hamilton asked for more music, so your scribe sang "The Voice Of Home."

Miss Hamilton stressed that when there was sickness in the home the bed should be raised to save the nurse's back.

Also that a bed-table could be nicely made from an orange crate. Make the ends the right height to set before the patient, cover these ends with chintz, making pockets of them in which to keep small things the patient may need.

When the speaker finished a most cordial vote of thanks was voiced, for we all felt that light had shone for us into dark places and illumined the treatment of many things which occur so often in the daily round.

VICTORY is in your pocket

Yesterday we lived far apart . . . the worker in the mills . . . the farm woman in her kitchen . . . the fisherman down by the sea.

Yesterday we went our several ways . . . each in his own place . . . following his own occupation . . . working for his own ends.

Today there is but one end, one interest, one task for all, if we are all to live.

And that end is victory.

You, on the farm . . . you, in the bank . . . you, in the forest or factory . . . whatever you do now is of small account unless it hastens victory.

Over and above what you are doing, wherever you are, you can help shorten the war . . . by your savings.

That's the truth . . . a solemn truth . . . a truth you should think about when you hold back a dollar that might go into war savings. Think! . . . a dollar might perhaps lessen by a minute the duration of the war.

A hundred dollars might cut off an hour.

A million dollars might save months.

Months of suffering for millions! . . . that is what you may be saving . . . not simply dollars, but lives.

Put every dollar you can into the new Victory Loan. That is what the life insurance companies are doing.

The business of life insurance is protection, and we know of no better way to protect the four million people who entrust the guardianship of their future to us, than by investing in victory.

There can be no protection for any of us, unless we win through to victory.

And victory is in our pockets.

Recall Landing History For Church Centennial

By Rev. Newton Bowles

Holland Landing United church will celebrate its centennial anniversary the first two Sundays in October.

The above words send one's thought back through the years far beyond the bounds of memory. What was Holland Landing like one hundred years ago? It has been with great interest that the committee appointed for the task has been gathering information about those far-off years. What is presented here is but a brief and inadequate resume.

Just what year should have the credit for the birth of Holland Landing we do not know. As the end of a portage and a launching place for canoes for the Indians it probably goes far back in the centuries. Who were the first white folk to reach the Landing is not known, but Parkman, in his history, tells us that early in the French regime the Jesuits had a stockade here.

It is quite certain that the canoes and heavy bateaux of the North West Fur Company used this route as early as 1775. The river owes its present name to a Major Holland, who fought with Wolfe in the capture of Canada. It was probably someone in the late 1780's that he travelled up the Humber River and portaged to the Landing.

It was in 1792 that Governor Simcoe and his party first penetrated through the forests from York and set eyes on the yellow marshlands of the Holland flats. Impressed by its then strategic value, Simcoe later established

North Gwillimbury there, hard by, at what is known as Soldier's Bay. We are told that "there more than a century ago the word of command rang out, the drum and bugle awoke the echoes as soldiers in scarlet coats with stiff leather collars, white trousers and quaint hats, carried on with all the pomp of a London parade ground."

For here stood the pine fort of Simcoe's day, which in 1812, when the authorities apprehended that the Americans might attack via the north, was augmented by additional log barracks and a battery of nine brass cannon. That the Landing continued in importance for many decades is seen in the fact that as late as 1825 the famous Arctic explorer, Sir John Franklin, launched his canoes here for a four-thousand mile journey that took him finally down the Mackenzie river to the Arctic.

Of the Landing in 1827, John Galt, commissioner of the Canada Co., says in his autobiography: "The next morning we went forward to a place on the Holland River, an open space which the Indians and the fur traders were in the habit of frequenting. It presented something of a Scottish aspect in the style of the cottages, but instead of mountains the environs were covered with trees. We embarked at this place (for Godrich via Penetanguishene)."

There were, of course, two landings—the upper and the lower, being a little more than a mile apart. The upper landing is the one where the canoes of the fur traders and Indians were usually launched—the lower was where the vessels of deeper draught anchored. It was at this lower landing that the first steamer, "The Simcoe," was built and launched in 1832. These were the days of bustling activity for the Holland River.

When the whistle of the railway echoed through the forests and valleys of York county in 1853, the doom of the Landing was sealed. No longer did travellers need to make the journey from Toronto by wagon or stage coach and take a boat for the farther north. Hence the Landing quickly fell into disuse and decay. A visit there now and no sign of the old pine fort can be found—nothing is seen that even suggests the stirring activity that once belonged to this place. Sic transit gloria mundi.

Nevertheless if the glory of the two landings passed away the village that has persisted and remained. It is but a short distance south of the upper landing and was first called St. Albans. If time has dealt more generously with the village than with the landings yet considerable of the glory of the village also lies in the past. As late as 1873 Lovell's Ontario Gazetteer describes Holland Landing as a thriving village containing grist and woolen mills, a tannery, brewery, several stores and hotels and insurance offices. Population 700. Since then the industries have departed and the village has become a residential hamlet with a population of about 250.

One wishes there were more detailed records of those far-off days and the pioneers who then lived here. Such records as we have seen of early settlers there was a distinct flavor of the aristocracy. Among these were the Thornes, the Beardmores, the Parsons and the Barwicks. From an old edition of the Toronto "Telegram" we have taken the following excerpt: "Chief social centre not only of the Landing but of the whole country side was the 'Homewood,' which stood on hill overlooking the village. John Barwick, its owner, an English gentleman of fortune, born at St. Petersburg, where his father had been an attaché to the British embassy, came to Canada in the early thirties. . . . He built the 'Homewood' about 1837, a large plaster house of Devonshire style, with a man's estate. Well-kept grounds surrounded it. Inside its spacious rooms, good furniture and pictures and handsome old silver made visitors from the old country imagine themselves back in a squire's hall. One of the 'Homewood' features was the large dining-room its walls bright with a warm reddish paper manufactured from soldier's shavings and coats which had been used in war."

"Mr. Barwick and his wife kept open house. They also had 18 children. So the 'Homewood' was a frequent scene of festivity for the young people from far and near, who ever received generous hospitality and a hearty welcome. Sir Wm. Mulock and his sisters were frequent visitors to its dances in their young days; so were the late Joseph Cawthra, Barlow Cumberland and a host of others. . . . "Alas, the hospitable 'Homewood' was long since burned down and today the Barwicks, the Parsons and the Thornes and other residents of former days are but memories, to a few of the older residents."

However, one relic that speaks plainly of far-off day still remains. This is the famous Holland Landing anchor. This massive piece of hardware was forged at Chatham, England, sent to Quebec by ship and then to Montreal and York (Toronto) by bateau. The anchor, which weighs 4,004 pounds, was put aboard sleighs and taken up Yonge St. by ox team to the Landing to be shipped to Penetanguishene, where it was to be part of the equipment of a man-of-war which was being built for service on Lake Huron against the Americans.

As the story goes, the teamsters had almost reached the Landing when the courier announcing peace overtook them. The anchor was taken off the sleighs and left lying somewhere in the vicinity of Soldier's Bay where stood the fort built by Governor Simcoe. There it lay and gradually sank almost out of sight. The next day Capt. Adam Brock, afterwards of Port Credit, who was one of a surveying party working in the woods saw what he supposed to be a curious gnarled tree trunk covered with moss and brush. He took a swing at it with his axe. Much to his amazement and the detriment of his axe he heard the sound of metal. Investigation revealed the immense anchor.

So far as we can discover it was on or about Confederation year—that is, 1867—that the anchor was hauled to Holland Landing park where it may be seen today. Canadians interested in the history of our land should turn aside when travelling up Yonge St. to see this remarkable relic. Apart from the anchor the park itself—which is just to the north of the village—is well worthy a visit. It is one of those out-of-the-way beauty spots of which any place might be proud.

Coming now to the history of the Holland Landing United church (formerly Methodist) we find the From various sources several items which we think worth recording have been gathered.

The Christian Guardian of Dec. 24, 1842 has this to say: "A new Wesleyan Methodist church at Holland Landing will be opened for divine worship on Sabbath, Dec. 25, by Rev. D. Wright of the Credit, and Rev. Lachlan Taylor of Toronto city. Morning service will commence at 10 o'clock and afternoon at 2 o'clock and evening at 6 1/2 o'clock. A collection will be taken up at the close of each service to assist in liquidating the debt upon the church. Friends from a distance are informed that they will be accommodated with places for themselves and their families." From the same paper we also get the information that the site for the church was generously given by Mr. Chief Justice Robinson.

That is about all we know of the first beginnings. One would give much to have more details not only of those opening services but of the work that must have preceded that event. The names of the men and the women who first made this church possible are not now known with any certainty, but anyone who knows the history of the Methodist church knows also the large part played by the people themselves—especially by the local preachers and the class leaders. To those unknown folk one hundred years ago brought this church into existence we of this present church at this centennial celebration would bring our grateful tribute of remembrance.

When the Methodists first began work in the village we do not know. There is a record that tells us that Holland Landing Mission was first a part of the Albion circuit, which circuit was organized in 1824. This relationship continued until 1854. Since then the church has had many circuit affiliations. It has been part of the Newmarket circuit. For a time it gave its name to a circuit and the pastor resided at the Landing. For a considerable period it belonged to the Queensville circuit. At the time of union it was joined with Sharon and Hope. Shortly after the union of 1925 it became a part of the Bradford charge.

A long list of pastors has ministered to the spiritual needs of this church. The ministers of Albion circuit from 1842 to 1843 were: Francis Coleman, James Hutchinson, John Goodfellow, Benjamin Jones and Wm. Coleman. What long journeys these men must have made, probably mostly on horseback, and over bad roads, and in all sorts of weather! Long gone, their work still remains.

All we know about the years 1845 to 1854 is that the circuit was supplied by adjacent districts. The scarcity of ordained men meant that much of the preaching must have been done by local help. The ministers at Holland Landing from 1854 to 1855 were: 1854, Andrew Edwards; 1855, George Cochran; 1856-57, George E. Brown; 1858-60, Thomas Hanna; 1861, Abraham Dayman, David Jennings; 1862, Alexander Brennan, James Laird; 1863-1864, Alexander Brennan, James Laird, Nelson

Burns, Richard Large; 1865, Wm. Hewitt, Joseph Locke.

Taking up the list again in the nineties, we have these men as pastors: Mr. Scott, Thomas Leonard George Washington and Hugh Brown. From 1900 to 1912 the work was carried on by R. J. D. Simpson, H. L. Partridge and R. Fralick. Of the above all are deceased except R. J. D. Simpson and H. L. Partridge.

From this date to the union of 1925 there were: A. McNeil, J. A. Callan, Charles Otton, W. A. Sinclair, Ernest Payne, James Phinister, Wm. Mair. Since being united with Bradford it has been served by W. H. Bradford, Wm. Cannon, C. H. Forth, H. W. Vaughan and the present minister, N. E. Bowles.

While the names of those who were leaders in the church during the first years are not now known to us some workers of half a century or so ago are still remembered. Among these are: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Luck, Mr. and Mrs. T. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Black and others.

There are three events of the last 50 years of which we would like to make special mention. The first is the organization of an Epworth League on April 15, 1896. Rev. Mr. Walker, junior pastor, was made president and A. E. Leaman, secretary-treasurer. Of those first members of the society five are still with us, viz.—Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Thompson, Mrs. G. Tate, Mrs. M. Evans and Mr. C. Fawcett. Reading through the minutes of those first years one is struck by the time given to prayer and personal testimony. One also notes with interest that a cord of wood was bought for $2.25. Perhaps the church got a special price.

The second event was the remodeling and decoration of the church in 1898. The re-opening services were held on Dec. 23, 1898, with Rev. Mr. Dewey of Aurora and Rev. Mr. Brown of Bradford as the special speakers. There were three services and the Sunday collections amounted to $28. The fowl supper was more successful financially as the total proceeds, collection apparently included, amounted to $110.

A still more extensive remodeling and renovation took place as recently as 1937 at a cost of some $2,800. The re-opening services took place on Aug. 22 and 29, with Rev. Gordon Sisco, secretary of the United church, and H. W. Vaughan as the special speakers. Today the Holland Landing United church is one of which any village might be proud. Although thus extensively renovated the original walls of one hundred years ago are incorporated in the building as we have it today.

The centennial celebrations are planned for the first two weeks in October. On Sunday, Oct. 4, at 3 p.m., Rev. Mr. Partridge, who came pastor here in 1904, will preach and bring greetings from those distant days. Rev. Mr. Forth, a more recent pastor, will be the speaker at the evening service at 7.30. The following Sunday at 3 p.m. and 7.30 p.m. Rev. Dr. Archer Wallace, noted author, lecturer and preacher will speak.

The afternoon service will be especially a children's service but not without interest to adults. At the conclusion of the evening service Dr. Wallace will give a talk on the Old Land, illustrated with a hundred beautifully colored slides. These pictures have been shown in many Toronto churches after the evening service and with great acceptance. The choir is arranging special music. A freewill offering will be received at all the services. Friends near and far are cordially invited and a day of interest and spiritual profit is confidently expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paul, a recent bride and groom, were honored on Friday evening when about 35 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. John McKimling to give them a miscellaneous shower. The young couple received many lovely gifts.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK - OCT. 4-10

THESE SIMPLE SUGGESTIONS, IF FOLLOWED BY EVERYONE IN THE FAMILY, WILL MAKE YOUR HOME SAFE FROM FIRE

Put lighted matches and smokes out before you throw them away. Keep matches where small children cannot reach them. Never smoke in the garage, barn, or attic, nor in bed.

Remove rubbish, waste papers and all unnecessary combustible materials. Provide metal ash and trash cans. Burn rubbish only in a safely covered brick or metal incinerator. Watch the fire.

Examine all stoves, furnaces, and smoke-pipes to make sure they are safe and well away from woodwork or other burnable materials. Have needed repairs made at once.

Value the advice of your firemen, who say that many fires are caused by dirty or defective chimneys. Have the chimney cleaned regularly, and have all defects repaired.

Escape the danger of inflammable liquid fires and explosions by keeping no gasoline in the house. Do dry cleaning with safe liquids or send to the cleaner. Never start fires with kerosene.

Notify the town or your engineer of electrical trouble. Replace "blown" fuses with new ones—not pennies. Avoid home-made wiring jobs.

Teach everyone in the family to be careful of fire, to watch stoves, fireplaces, electric irons and all other possible fire causes, and every day to remove old rags, papers and other rubbish.

Fireproof your home as far as possible by fire-safe roofing, fire-stopping in hollow walls and partitions to stop the spread of flame, and a non-combustible basement ceiling.

Inquire of your firemen, when buying a fire extinguisher, to be sure of getting the right kind. Don't hesitate to ask your firemen whenever you have questions on fire prevention.

Remember always where the nearest fire-alarm box is and how to send an alarm. If telephoning, be sure the address is clearly understood. Use a neighbor's phone rather than one in the burning building.

Explain to everyone in the house what to do in case of fire, how to put out fire in clothing by wrapping in a rug or blanket, what to do when grease catches fire in the kitchen.

Save life and property from needless destruction by fire by keeping the principles of fire prevention always in mind and never taking a chance with fire.

W. W. OSBORNE, FIRE CHIEF.

BACKACHE OFTEN WARNING

Backache may be the first sign of kidney trouble. When your back aches, look to your kidneys. Don't fail to heed this warning—it is too important. Printing that Talks Business!

When you want to buy printing that will do a job, see us. And what is the job that printing should do? It should tell a story. It should shout "Hear ye! Hear ye!" from an auction sale bill or a poster. It should make people take notice, become interested, and tell others about the coming event.

It should make people go home and say, "I see So-and-So has bills out for a sale," or "I see by the bills that there is going to be a Red Cross dance at the Corners." The poster should start people reading, and keep them reading and talking about the big "do."

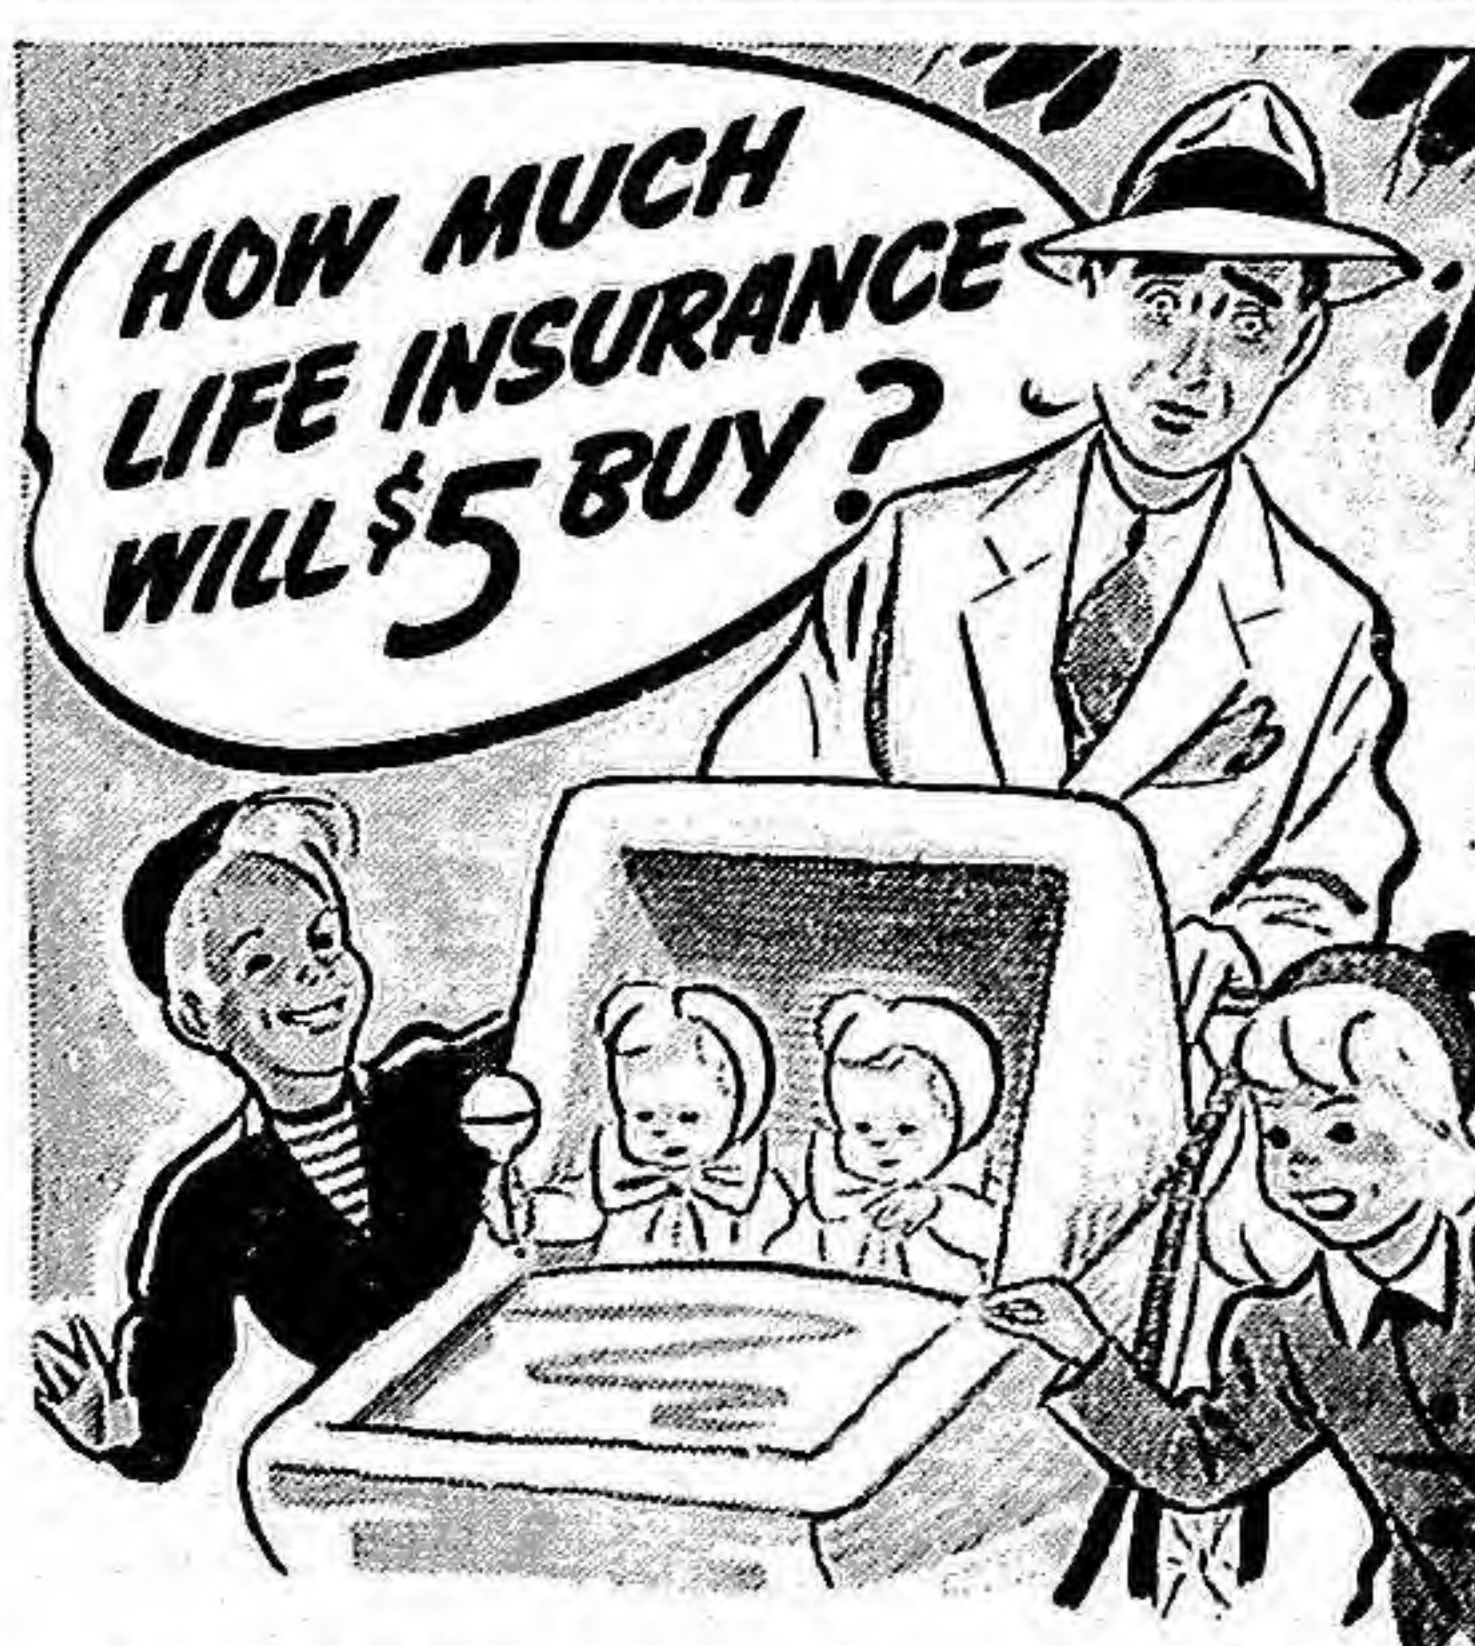

Business printing should be in keeping with your business, to make the right sort of an impression. A professional man wants dignity. A garage wants to take advantage of its letterheads or invoices to tell people something about its services, to do a free-wheeling sales job.

Only One Contestant Sends In Ten Correct Answers, Contest This Week For Those Who Have Never Won

Out of 16 persons sending in answers to last week's contest, Marion Rose, Newmarket, was the only contestant with ten correct answers. There were six answers sent in with only one error and from these the other four winners of double passes were drawn by Molly McCappin of Hillsdale Dairy.

They are Francis Elphinstone, 7 D'Arcy St., Newmarket, Helen McBride, 59 Prospect Ave., Newmarket, Mrs. Dan Casey, Newmarket, and Miss Ada McKinnon, Newmarket. Passes may be picked up any evening at the Strand theatre.

The correct answers were shuffling, premises, teacher, optional, description, furnished, second, varieties, reliable and mixture. Apparently our oven-bird, which says "teacher, teacher, teacher," had most of the contestants puzzled.

These winners have their choice of seeing Bud Abbott and Lou Costello in "Pardon My Sarong" and Jinx Falkenburg and Charles Buddy Rogers in "Sing For Your Supper," on Tuesday, Oct. 6, or Ray Milland and Paulette Goddard in "The Lady Has Plans" and Frank Morgan and Kathryn Grayson in "The Vanishing Virginian," on Thursday, Oct. 8.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST

The winners of the five double passes for this week's contest will have their choice of "Tough As They Come," with the Dead End Kids and Little Tough Guys, and "The First Commando," with Clifford Evans, Constance Cummings and Tommy Trinder, on Tuesday, Oct. 13, or "Dr. Kildare's Victory," with Lew Ayres, Lionel Barrymore and Ann Ayars and "No Hands On the Clock," with Chester Morris on Thursday, Oct. 15.

This week's contest is open only to those who have never won before. See if you can work out the answers, but don't send them in unless you have never won before. And let us have only one set of answers from any one household.

Here are the ten scrambled words for this week's contest: HIANESM, SLMSAES, PEV, ROIDTCU, NCITIV, BLAERI, VESIERC, HLGANDH, GYENIALR, DIJENG, ILFLU, AOWRCE.

WANT-ADS

The rate for Want Ads is 25 cents for 25 words for one insertion; 40 cents for two insertions; 50 cents for three insertions. For over 25 words, each additional word, one insertion, one-cent, additional insertions, one-half cent per insertion. 25c extra if not paid within week of first insertion, 10c extra for use of box number.

Priorities Result In Four Days Holidays At A.H.S.

War priorities and disrepair gave Aurora high school students an unexpected four days' holiday, which ended this morning as the school fires were kindled and gave forth the all important heat.

The provincial boiler inspector for the district visited the school in July and suggested that the heating system, while apparently in good condition, might require a few small adjustments. A few weeks later he sent a written report to the board and they immediately approved the purchase of the materials.

The question of priorities now became important and after much correspondence and red tape the repairs were received in Aurora the day school opened. When the new repairs were put in, it was found that several other parts would not stand the strain the improved system would put upon them so, on Friday, the board decided to close the school until the heating system was completely put in shape.

Fortunately, Aurora workmen were able to make several of the needed parts, or priorities might have caused further delay.

Fire completely destroyed the barn and season's crop of Stanley Terry, well known 5th concession King township farmer, early Wednesday morning.

Two calves, which were trapped in the barn, were destroyed as well as the threshing machine of Jack Archibald of Puttysville, which stood beside the barn. Cause of the fire is unknown, with a loss estimated at around $6,000.

Mr. Terry discovered the fire around 6 a.m. as he was preparing a fire at the farmhouse. The blaze was far advanced and appeared to be at the outside of the barn. Threshing operations had finished on Monday and Mr. Archibald was awaiting another job in the district before moving his machinery. Running to the barn, Mr. Terry saved the horses, the cattle being outside.

Neighbors, hastily summoned, came to the rescue and saved the implement shed and implements. The blaze was too far advanced and the water supply too limited to summon any of the fire brigades which serve the district.

Reports submitted at Monday night's meeting showed that over $60 had been raised at the booth in the town park at the Red Cross carnival and nearly $100 at the tag day held recently. More funds are needed to carry on the work of the organization.

The mission band of Aurora United church held their opening meeting of the fall season on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Roy Fletcher was in charge.

The Aurora Red Shield Auxiliary of the Salvation Army met on Tuesday evening at the Aurora club.

Miss Evelyn Mitchell of Toronto, who is the dominion travelling secretary of the United Church Woman's Missionary Societies, addressed the Aurora W.M.S. on the subject, "My Work and Thanks-giving," this afternoon. Mrs. E. H. Clarke presided over the gathering.

The meeting was well attended. Rev. Harry Wilson of King conducted the evening service at Aurora Baptist church. The pastor, Rev. A. R. Park, preached the anniversary services at Second King Baptist church.

DOWN THE CENTRE

Hughie Mair, former Aurora junior and erstwhile puckchaser for Toronto Marlboros, St. Catharines and Montreal Shamrocks, enters the navy this week and will in all probability remain in Toronto to play for H.M.C.S. York in the senior O.H.A. series. Scotty, whose home is in Newmarket, announced his intention last week and will be right at home with old teammates, Bill Wilson, and Mickey Smith. It is the first time the Wilson-Mair combination, which sparkled brightly here in 37-38, have been together since that date. Smith expected to be moved elsewhere this week unless Lieut. Harold Smith (no relation), the sports officer for the navy, decided the former Sutton goalie should remain in Toronto.

Ellis Pringle, the former big leaguer who was last year with Sutton Greenhills, is a member of the DeHavilland organization this season and will play for their entry in the West Toronto mercantile group. Ellis will have Les Vickery and Jack Culverwell as teammates off the Sutton lineup. Jimmy Cummings, former Aurora junior, will also be with the DeHavilland outfit.

Stewart Cheatham, who played for Brantford juniors a few years back against the Tigers, was a member of the ill-fated party from Midland which met disaster last week. Cheatham was lucky enough to get to shore after some harrowing experience. He is expected to line up with Midland in O.H.A. intermediate this winter. Last year he was with Atlantic City.

No words of ours can add anything to the tributes that have been paid to the late Bert Corbeau, the host of the tragic party, who was drowned. Older Newmarket sports fans will remember him when he played with Midland and later brought down a couple of fine Midland junior teams which just about eliminated Newmarket. As a player with the old Toronto St. Pat's and later as coach of Atlantic City Bert gave everything he had and was always ready to aid the youngsters on the team or the kids on the outdoor ponds. Dr. Smirle Lawson, chair harpener of Ontario, who investigated the tragedy, is reported as follows: "He died a hero in death. His clothes were found at the shore. It seems he reached safety himself, tore off his clothes and plunged back in to help others."

Lorne Evans, who tended goal for Milton juniors last year, will probably end up playing amateur and tending goal each day for the Toronto Leafs in practice. He is going to St. Catharines this month with the Leafs and if we are able to believe all we hear, Coach "Happy" Day thinks highly of the Milton lad. Aurora of all the clubs in the group last year had the least trouble in beating the rotund Evans. They put 11 past him first game after they had discovered a faked shot would bring him to the ice. Late in the season he had this fault corrected and performed brilliantly to the finals. Murray Scruton of Etobicoke, whose back fence adjoins Day's, sang the paeans of praise for Evans all summer until at last the Leaf forces grabbed him. Our own opinion is that despite his splendid record Evans wasn't as good as Ross Waddell two years ago or Frank Carr in '38. Carrized out after that, Waddell will again guard the twine cage for Oshawa juniors, but it is a long jump from junior C hockey to pro ranks. We don't think it's ever been done.

Joe Schertzel, the big Milton defenceman, will train at Port Arthur with Boston Bruins along with Herbie Cain and our guess is that Schertzel is likely to make the grade this season. Unless a change is made, Del Beaumont will not be included in the Leafs plans but will ice-lane it for Marlboros juniors.

Arnold McDuffe will be remembered as the good Milton goalie of a few years back who almost stemmed Aurora's championship ambitions. McDuffe is still around Milton and last week was married to Jean Parfot of Milton.

Congratulations are in order for two former Newmarket Redmen, who became proud daddies in September. Aubrey Marshall is all smiles because it is a boy, while Charlie Thoms with a feminine addition now has one of each variety. His boy incidentally is named after Uncle Bill Thoms and Charlie is looking forward to seeing the family name perpetuated in hockey for years to come. "Sparky" Vall is still at Timmins and this summer pitched for McIntyre in the N.O.B.A. Sparky did a good job, too, but not good enough to get to the finals.

DeLaSalle college is holding its annual track and field meet on Saturday at the Pinnacle and a cordial invitation is extended to all sports fans to take in the events. Usually there are some pretty fair performers at DeLaSalle.

Ronnie Howe, the former Markham puckchaser who married some of his games with bursts of temper, has carried his peevishness over into soccer, where he has been making a name for himself for his fine work just as he did in hockey. He was suspended by the Toronto council for "ungentlemanly conduct" and to add insult to injury didn't appear before the governing body. His teammates of the East Juniors, who included Don Hamilton in their lineup, won their first game of their finals series 2-1.

Orville Softballers, who have just finished a really successful season with four teams in the town league, have set up a record which puts to shame centres like Barrie, Aurora, Newmarket and Richmond Hill, supposed mushball strongholds. After paying all expenses the league had a profit of $339 to show for their efforts, all collected from the fans of the town. One hundred dollars was invested in a war bond, $75 was spent on a party for all the teams, and the balance was divided among the teams. Next season the league is considering installing floodlights. This was town league softball only and there were no big-name teams playing. At Aurora this year the town league carried on without any collections being taken. The reason was that other years trying to extract funds from the pockets of those attending was a hopeless job. The boys chipped in to pay-as-you-play baseball.

Jackie Watson, the good junior hockey player, chided in at Parry Sound and will be with one of the Toronto junior teams this season.

Joe Cherry, the Gormley boy and former White Rose hockey player, who is being counted on by Joe Primeau to be a regular with Upper Canada College, this winter has been made prefect of Seton House. Which speaks well for the lad's all-round ability.

Bucky Harris, who a few years back was a well known all-round athlete at Richmond Hill, is a flight engineer now with the Royal Air Force ferry command and during the present conflict has just about touched most parts of the globe in his travels. He spent a few days in the district recently, in case you've forgotten his right name is Leonard W. Harris but "Bucky" will be all he'll hear in North York.

Providence Reds will be the farm team for the Toronto Leafs this season. They formerly worked in league with Les Canadiens. Buffalo Bisons are scheduled to train at Midland and will report there for training on Sunday next. Whether or not Eddie Shore will stay with Buffalo is not known. He is still the property of the Boston Bruins and with players short this season may get back up for duty. Cleveland Barons tried to make a deal with Queen's University to train in Kingston but the University authorities wanted $1,500 for the privilege and owner Al Sutphin turned it down. Ice goes into Oshawa arena on Oct. 12 and so it goes wherever there is artificial ice.

Jimmy Cummings made a grand start in the football firmament on Saturday as he gathered in two long passes for touchdowns for Oakwood Indians, to chalk up ten points and temporarily take over the scoring leadership of the O.R.F.U. Incidentally, Vic "Red" Reynolds, former Barrie hockeyist, was in action for the R.C.A.F. team on Saturday, while Jack Cummins of the same team hails from Orillia and was on the defence against Aurora a few years back when Orillia juniors just about stopped Aurora after taking a three-goal lead at home.

Shepperton, owned and trained by Frank Schelke of Gormley, pulled the big upset of the season on Saturday as he took the Autumn Handicap at Woodbine. Ten To Ace and our old friend, Charlie Smith, found the going too tough with the weight assigned and after Smith saw he couldn't bring the Ace home he let him ease up to finish in seventh place and suffer the second defeat of his career.

Gus Marker and Murph. Chamberlain, two former members of the Toronto Maple Leafs, have turned up in Kingston, where they have defence jobs and will, it is said, concentrate on amateur hockey this season. "Pat" Patterson and Mickey Blake, two Kingston boys who have played minor pro, are expected to play senior also this season.

Billy Hainsworth, who was in goal for Waterloo the year they won junior B honors, has enlisted with the army and is stationed in western Ohio.

Five years ago came next March Orangeville juniors defeated Aurora juniors for the C title. There were 15 players on that team and all of the boys are now on active service. Silk, the goalie, is overseas with the signals, along with Lackey. Patterson is a sergeant, Leach an officer with the Lorne Scots and both overseas.

Five in the R.C.A.F., Jack Hopkins, the good forward, being a pilot-officer. The navy has one recruit in Hammer and the rest are with the army here in Canada.

Two years later Grimsby won the junior C title and all of that proud little bunch of peach kings are on active service.

Aurora and Markham, who have pretty well dominated the C series, while having no one full team on active service, totalled over the years, have a powerful representation in this war game. There are not many teams which will find the entire squad physically fit for active service a few years later. Does a baseball curve? We had that question put to us by a Newmarket man last week. Well, all we can say is that if a pitcher can't curve a ball we've been suffering from optical illusions for years. Some months ago a well-known picture magazine claimed by actual pictures that all "curves" are really straight and that the eye was faulty. The American Journal of Physics corrects this with experiments conducted by Frank Verwiebe of Eastern Illinois State Teachers' College. The Verwiebe tests show most of the curving goes place in the last half of the pitch, giving some solid ground for "the break" which so many people insist they have seen.

The test showed deviations at the home plate as much as six and a half inches. The measurements were made in the same way that the path and velocity of a bullet are determined. Four screens were set up between the pitcher and the plate and one at the plate. Vertical and horizontal threads crossed the screens set there by surveyor's transit. The position of the ball as it passed through the screens was determined by the broken threads. One throw was intentionally straight and was so recorded. The curve tests showed from two and a half inches to six and a half inches curvature by the time the plate was reached. The outdrags deviated the most and were, as is common with most pitchers, the easiest to throw.

The speed of the ball was found to vary from 90 to 130 feet a second. So you can guess how much time a batter has to get set for one to come winging to the plate. Tests failed to show a "hop" or jump ball that both Walter Johnson and Bob Feller are said to have thrown. The practical physics of the situation seem to preclude this possibility. We suppose with the undoubted speed possessed by both men the white pill merely seemed to act like it was supposed to.

Many peculiar effects reported about baseball are as yet unexplained and hardly likely to be proved or disproved because it would take the actual player involved to prove or disprove the claims. We hope this explains the situation. It would be a sorry day for baseball were it to be said there were no curves and it was "eye trouble" only. Everybody knows that the only person convinced that baseball has no eye trouble is the umpire, and he's not only got eye trouble but is "blind."

The Merriwell books and many learned treatises on baseball would be entirely ruined if it were so. The Yanks and Cards, if you'll state in to the games this week and next, will prove to you curves do exist on the baseball diamond. As a rule, we try to confine the thoughts in our column purely to the local scene. Allee-same-time, with sports on the bumper in North York compared to the scene a few years back, we may wander out of our own balliwick a bit more than usual, from now on. It may get pretty bad but we suppose it has its high spots too. We are reminded of the colonel who said to his Irish hestman: "The lad is going to be a terrible war. Pat."

As might be expected Pat's reply was, "You're right, sir, but it's better than none at all."

EVERSLEY Is Dragged 40 Feet As Car Backs Down Hill

Corn cutting and silo filling has begun. The corn will make a fine lot of ensilage.

Potato crops are small as the blight caught most of them. Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Clark Archibald on the birth of a son at York county hospital, Newmarket. Mr. and Mrs. Archibald and two children are taking up residence in their cottage in King City, recently vacated by Mrs. Campbell.

The Gellatly family held a reunion over the weekend. Dr. and Mrs. Harvey Gellatly from Fort William have been visiting their mother in King and other members of the family party complete. Mr. Roger Gellatly from Toronto, Ernest and family from Willowdale, Mrs. Clara Smith from Toronto, Allan and Walter from King, and Jessie and Mrs. Gellatly at home, along with the grandchildren, made a family of 20.

Rev. J. Stewart Ferguson of Zephyr United church was the guest preacher in Temperanceville church on Sunday at the anniversary service. Laskay choir in the morning and Maple Presbyterian choir in the evening rendered acceptably the sacred music. Mr. Ferguson was back in his old home once more and friends flocked to meet and hear him.

Philip Bridgeman suffered a severe accident a week ago. He was helping to dig out a car which was stuck on a hill in Honey Pot on Saturday night. When the running-board was released, the car immediately backed down the hill, knocking Mr. Bridgeman down and dragging him about 40 feet. The car came to a halt when it struck a stone. Mr. Bridgeman crept out from under and was rushed to an Aurora doctor. Stitches were required to close the wound in his back.

Mrs. Art Bovair suffered a painful scald when removing canned tomatoes from the boiling water. A two-quart sealer exploded, throwing the scalding tomatoes and juice over part of her face and down her neck. She was rushed to the doctor, suffering severely, but is improving.

FOR LASTING PROTECTION

YOU SLEPT WELL THAT NIGHT, DIDN'T YOU?

BUT GEORGE WAS AT DIEPPE!

NICE fellow, George—one of the lads from the office. Remember, you had him out for dinner one night. He made a great fuss over your kids—and your wife was very pleased. And then, all of a sudden, he slipped away and joined up. Left his good job, his girl and his future. And he was at Dieppe, slogging up the beach into a murderous rain of steel—fighting for you and your wife and those kids of yours he played with. And that same night you slept well, didn't you... in a soft bed. You had an egg for breakfast too. But George didn't. And you're still got a good job and you wear good clothes.

And being conscientious, you worry about these things a bit. But you just haven't been able to push yourself into doing much more than pay your taxes. Well, those taxes aren't enough. Think of what George gave up, and then sit down with your wife and ask yourselves, "What else can we do?" Sure, you've given up a few little luxuries. But there are lots of things yet that you can cut down on. Do it gladly. Because you'll really get a kick out of investing the money you save in Victory Bonds, and in knowing you're not letting George do it all.

Just keep thinking about George and what he gave up. And remember, those Victory Bonds you buy aren't giving—they're lending your country money to help protect you. That money will come back to you with interest.

Grove W. I. was held at the home of Mrs. Bourchier Anderson on Sept. 9.

berry, presided. The roll-call,
"A Canadian product and location," was well responded to by the members. A goodly number of gifts were received in the show for overseas parcels.

After the usual business a fine paper was given by Mrs. Buckley. It dealt with Agriculture and Canadian Industry, the point being that these two were closely linked together, and that the rural homes and farm women were in a great measure responsible for the success of agriculture and Canadian industry.

Mrs. Noble Munro gave a demonstration on cheese-making.
An interesting and amusing flower contest was then held, the winner being Mrs. H. Cronsberry.

Mr. Freeman Gilroy was the winner of a handsome cushion which had been donated by Mrs.
Lloyd Pegg.
God Save the King, followed by a social half hour over teacups, brought a successful meeting to a close.

MOUNT ALBERT Ladies Are Guests of Stewards for Evening

On Wednesday evening of last week the stewards of the United church were hosts to the members of the W.M.S. and W.A. societies at the parsonage. It was a night not soon to be forgotten. A splendid program of readings, contests, music, fortune telling, etc., into which everyone entered, had been planned. Those who attended were divided into groups of the navy, air force, army and home guard. There was a great deal of rivalry and prizes were given to the winners. A bouquet of roses was presented to the hostess, Mrs. Burgess.

When the program was over the chefs of the kitchen and their helpers served a lovely lunch, so abundant it made one wonder where it all came from. It certainly takes the gentlemen to put on a fine evening. A vote of thanks was tendered by the presidents of the two societies. The singing of God Save the King brought the evening to a close.

Rev. and Mrs. Burgess welcomed everyone to the parsonage and hoped they would continue coming.

MOVIES PARADE

"Pardon My Sarong" is the eighth picture in the Bud Abbott and Lou Costello have made since coming to Hollywood. From a technical standpoint, at least, it should be three times as funny as any the boys have made. They appear as Chicago bus drivers at the beginning of the picture; are sailors on a yacht for another portion, and end up by out-fuzzing Tarzan on an uncharted south sea island populated by hundreds of beautiful native girls, a platoon of villains, and more wild animals than are caged in the average zoo.

Supporting Abbott and Costello in the south sea island picture are Virginia Bruce and Robert Paige who carry the romantic leads. This is the first time in Miss Bruce's screen career that she has appeared with slapstick comedians.

Lovely Jim Falckenburg, who won immediate screen fame as a result of her refreshing and versatile performance in Columbia's "Two Latins from Manhattan," returns to the Strand Theatre on Monday in "Sing For Your Supper," another of Columbia's delightful comedies with music.

Set against the divergent backgrounds of Park Avenue and the Casino (dime-a-dance) Hall, "Sing For Your Supper" is also brightened by a comedy-wise cast which includes Charles Buddy Rogers, Eve Arden, Benny Baker and Bert Gordon, radio's "Mad Russian."

A brand new star twosome will soon sparkle on the screen. Strand Theatre will present "The Last Days of Pompeii," a comedy-thriller, "The Lady Has Plans."

Ray Milland and Paulette Goddard—two top favorites among movie-goers—will be seen together in the film as America's ace news-caster and reporter, respectively. The picture is heralded as a romantic laugh riot from start to finish and is spiced with enough suspense and action to satisfy the most energetic mail-chewers and handkerchief-wingers.

From Lisbon, Milland broadcasts European news to listeners in America. Paulette Goddard, a reporter, is sent to assist him and she is mistaken by foreign agents for a spy who has, drawn on her back in invisible ink, plans stolen from the U.S. navy. Milland, too, believes her to be the spy and turns up, it is easy to imagine the car with him, just as follows. The thrills really pile up when Paulette and Milland get out to round up the entire spy ring.

POLICE COURT PAY $25 FOR DRIVING WHILE NO LICENSES

After an absence of several months from Newmarket police court, Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe presided on Tuesday and was well come back by Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

Finding two motorists guilty of charges of driving while their licenses to do so were suspended, his worship fined each $25 and costs or 30 days. They were Richard Foster of Holland Landing and Edw. Parker of Aurora.

County Constable Ronald Watt testified that on July 16 he stopped the car driven by Mr. Foster in East Gwillimbury. Mr. Foster admitted that he had been disqualified from driving.

Questioned by his worship as to the ownership of the car, the officer stated that it belonged to Mr. Sweet of Holland Landing.

In the case of Mr. Parker, Provincial Constable Alex. Ferguson told his worship that on Sept. 8, at about 12:40 a.m. he observed the defendant standing alone beside his car under a street-light on Welton St. in Aurora. He said that as he turned the car which he himself had been driving, the defendant got into his car and sped away at an excessive speed. Shortly afterward he saw Mr. Parker closing the door of his car on Centre St. near Yonge St.

"I asked him for his driver's license and he informed me that he didn't have one," stated Constable Ferguson.

"I am informed that the driver of the car was a Mr. Clark," commented Defence Counsel Lorne Lee. "I am definitely sure that it was not Mr. Clark," replied the officer. He added that he was quite familiar with the car and had been watching it for some time.

He informed his worship that he wasn't the driver of the car, continued the witness, "I told him that in my opinion he was the driver."

"Did you make any investigation of whether there was anyone else in the car?" questioned the defence.

"If there was, he must have been lying flat on the bottom of the car," replied the officer. "It was bright and clear and there was no one else there."

In reply to further questionings of the crown, Constable Ferguson stated that he had twice seen Mr. Parker driving in July while his license was suspended.

Mr. Parker, who is employed as plant superintendent with the Aurora Engineering Co., told his worship that his brother had left the car with him, and that he was in connection with work at the plant. He stated that on the night in question he had lent his car to a Mr. Clark and when the officer
